

breach of confidence. You should not have published the report, having received it in the circumstances that you did.

Contrary to what you have stated on your website, publication of the report is not in the public interest. The information is three years' old. It contains an assessment of Ms Parchment for a role for which she was not selected and which is entirely different in grade, salary and responsibility from the role which she later obtained and currently undertakes for the Council. Ms Parchment would neither have been shown the report, nor been given any opportunity to discuss it or challenge its contents as part of the recruitment process.

Your publication of the report may cause distress to Ms Parchment. The publication may also affect the confidence of individuals who might wish to apply for roles in the Council. These outcomes are not in the public interest.

The Council considers that publication of the report would contravene the Editor's Code of Practice which you will be familiar with as a journalist with the Sunday Express. Paragraph 3.1 of the Code states that: 'everyone is entitled to respect for his or her private and family life, home, health and correspondence, including digital communications.' Item 10 states that: 'the press must not seek to obtain or publish material acquired by ...the unauthorised removal of documents or photographs; or by accessing digitally-held private information without consent'. The Code is clear that journalists must uphold professional standards beyond their work environment. Your publication in this case demonstrates poor journalistic standards.

Furthermore the intellectual property rights in the report remain with Green Park and the Council and you have no authorisation to publish it.

Having regard to these matters, the Council requires that you immediately remove the report and related information from your website and that you confirm by return that this has been done.

Yours sincerely,

David Galpin
