

Community Service: Volunteering

5 pages | 1235 words

Volunteering can really be a great experience. I get to meet people, experience different adventures and it gives me a good feeling to be able to help and be a useful member of the community. I can also say that volunteering breaks the monotony of an otherwise boring week; thus, it helps preserve my sanity. I guess you might say that volunteering is in my blood. While living in New York, I was very active with the New York City National Multiple Sclerosis Society, where I started as an Event Captain. My job was to help the day run smoothly, by adding an extra level of expertise. Not only did I learn what goes on behind the scenes, I also got the opportunity meet so many amazing people. As an Event Captain, I was in charge of the "Bike MS, Walk MS, and Climb to the Top events." I was then asked to be a Chapter Ambassador to represent the Society and assist with the success of special events and programs. My key responsibilities included providing on-site event day assistance with the coordination of set-up, breaking down of selected special events and programs, assisting with the check-in, and maintaining attendance records for members. Research states that volunteering delivers a feasible way to meet the basic human need and to care for people outside oneself (King, 2005). In such ways, this is exactly what I set out to accomplish. I also volunteered for the JDRF (Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation), where I helped raise money for the cure by participating with the JDRF One Walk, The One Dream Gala, and the Hope Gala. I spent my time alongside peers in the philanthropy and business communities. I also helped with the JDRF Galas; these are known for raising money to help with life-changing breakthroughs that give hope to everyone impacted by this disease. The most exciting moment for me at one of these galas was when I had the opportunity to work side by side with Mary Tyler Moore. Moore lived with type 1 diabetes and raised awareness and funds for research to end the disease, as a passionate JDRF supporter and advocate. I had the wonderful experience volunteering at the Brooklyn Public Library where I taught older adults how to read and learn the latest technology using the Mac computer. Most of my students were from other counties who came to the United States for a better life, many who did not know how to read or write. Older adults need the most help with instruction of newer technologies (Freddolino et al., 2010). This taught me patience and understanding for the elderly community. Overall, this experience helped develop my community service skills. From the moment I walked on the UNLV campus, I knew that I wanted to be a part of its community and take advantage of everything it had to offer. I arrived here from Brooklyn, New York, to start a new life in Las Vegas, Nevada. The first thing on my agenda was to find a job at a place that would offer me various opportunities not only financially, but...

Spiegel,Patricia Keith-Spiegel,1973 The purpose of this book is to bring together in a single volume a discussion of some two dozen different social categories whose members can be labeled outsiders using our broad definition of the term The reader of this volume can gain insight into the major similarities and differences of the various outsider categories presented Each of the chapters was written especially for this book The authors were selected for their expertise in the area of their chapter content which more often than not includes involvement in innovative or action oriented approaches to solving complex social problems Most chapters follow a similar format a description of the social category a presentation of the dilemmas their members face explorations of traditional as well as recent approaches to resolving their dilemmas and a brief look at their prospects for more satisfying life situations and potentials Although comprehensive solutions to the problems outsiders face have yet to be evolved and implemented we hope that by imparting a more basic understanding of people in outsider categories we will have contributed to that end For not until outsiders are more fully understood from their own perspective
