Primary Computing and Digital Technologies: Knowledge, Understanding and Practice Keith Turvey, John Potter, Jeremy Burton, Jonathan Allen, Jane Sharp, 2016-09-14 What do you need to know to teach computing in primary schools How do you teach it This book offers practical guidance on how to teach the computing curriculum in primary schools coupled with the subject knowledge needed to teach it This Seventh Edition is a guide to teaching the computing content of the new Primary National Curriculum It includes many more case studies and practical examples to help you see what good practice in teaching computing looks like It also explores the use of ICT in the primary classroom for teaching all curriculum subjects and for supporting learning in every day teaching New chapters have been added on physical computing and coding and the importance of web literacy bringing the text up to date Computing is both a subject and a powerful teaching and learning tool throughout the school curriculum and beyond into many areas of children s learning lives This book highlights the importance of supporting children to become discerning and creative users of digital technologies as opposed to passive consumers

Strong Foundations in Early Mathematics Lorna Earle, Sam Parkes, 2023-01-11 Developing the building blocks for mathematics This book supports early years teachers and practitioners to enable children to build Strong Foundations in Mathematics It focuses on children s learning and development in mathematics in the critical reception year It supports trainee teachers and early years students to reflect on their own mathematics learning and how this influences their teaching and subject confidence It acknowledges the uniqueness of the early years and explores the mathematical pedagogies of the EYFS. Importantly the book challenges the assumption that early years mathematics is not proper maths. Taking Forward the Primary Curriculum: Preparing for the 2014 National Curriculum Roy Blatchford, 2013-10-11. This book has a simple intent. In September 2014 primary schools in England will be expected to adopt a new national curriculum. There is good time to prepare. At this point of curriculum change and development in England's schools the contributors offer their considered reflections on how primary schools across the country might take forward and shape their own curriculum framework for pupils. The spirit of the book is based on considerable leadership experience in schools letting a thousand flowers bloom rather than recommending a one size fits all approach. This book does not set out to analyse the content of the 2014 Primary Curriculum nor to present ways in which individual schools should plan their schemes of work and weekly or monthly planning. That is rightly the province of each school learning from and sharing best practice with others. Rather the contributors to this book present underpinning values, ideas and approaches to successful curriculum planning rooted in many years of leading and working in schools. Their reflections come from varying perspectives: teachers, headteachers, directors of foundations and leading thinkers on education, each of whom is involved in the work of the National Education Trust www.nationaleducationtrust.net an independent charitable foundation which champions best practice.

Educational Psychology, Google eBook. Angela M. O'Donnell, Eva Dobozy, Brendan Bartlett, Fiona Bryer, Johnmarshall Reeve, Jeffrey K. Smith, 2012-02-02. Educational psychology is the scientific study of how people learn and how teachers can foster learning. An understanding of these principles and how they can be applied to classroom situations is as crucial as it ever has been for the contemporary Australian school teacher from early childhood through to secondary school. Australian school environments and students are changing. Many issues are having an impact on the dynamics of the contemporary learning and teaching environment such as increasing student diversity including those with special needs. The pervasive impact of technology. The introduction of the Australian National Curriculum. The public reporting of school NAPLAN results. This text prepares pre-service teachers for their profession by encouraging reflective practice and critical thinking. It helps inform the practical teaching experience and develop skills through thought provoking questions, activities and lesson plan analysis. It is suited for educational psychology subjects taught to student teachers from all sectors: early childhood, primary, middle and secondary.
