

Chapter 4 – The Market Forces of Supply and DemandQ1. Explain each of the following statements using supply-and-demand diagrams.*a. "When a cold snap hits Florida, the price of orange juice rises in supermarkets throughout the country."

- See Figure A
- When a cold snap hits Florida, it will damage the orange crop, leading to a decline in the supply of oranges, shown by a shift to the left of the supply curve of orange juice. This will result in a higher equilibrium price, and a lower equilibrium quantity.

b. "When the weather turns warm in New England every summer, the price of hotel rooms in Caribbean resorts plummets."

- See Figure A
- When the weather is warm in New England every summer, the demand for hotel rooms in the Caribbean will decline as fewer people want to escape New England for good weather. This fall in demand is shown by a shift to the left of the demand curve for hotel rooms, and results in a lower equilibrium price, and a lower equilibrium quantity.

c. "When a war breaks out in the Middle East, the price of gasoline rises, and the price of a used Cadillac falls."

- See Figure A
- When a war breaks out in the Middle East, several markets are affected. As a large proportion of oil production takes place there, the supply of gasoline falls, shown by a shift to the left of the supply curve. This leads to an increase in equilibrium price and decline of equilibrium quantity of gasoline.
- As a result of a higher price for gasoline, the cost of running a used Cadillac will increase. This will lead to a decline in the demand for used Cadillacs as they will be less attractive, and more people will try to sell them. This will lead to a shift to the left of the demand curve and a shift to the right of the supply curve, and will result in a lower equilibrium price.

Q2. "An increase in the demand for notebooks raises the quantity of notebooks demanded but not the quantity supplied." Is this statement true or false? Explain.

- See Figure A
- This statement is in general false. As shown in Figure A, due to an increase in the demand for notebooks, the supplier will also raise the quantity of notebooks supplied. This could only be true if the supply curve was a vertical line, with a constant supply.

Q4. Consider the markets for DVDs, TV screens, and tickets at movie theaters.a. For each pair, identify whether they are complements or substitutes:

- DVDs and TV screens - Complements
- DVDs and movie tickets - Substitutes
- TV screens and movie tickets - Substitutes

b. Suppose a technological advance reduces the cost of manufacturing TV screens. Draw a diagram to show what happens in the market for TV screens.

- See Figure A
- Due to technological developments, the cost of manufacturing TV screens falls. This leads to an increase in the supply of TV screens, shown by a shift to the right in the supply curve. This then leads to a decline in equilibrium price, and an increase in equilibrium quantity of TV screens.
