

PDF EXTRACTOR 7 for MFP 5

Business Logic for your particular Business Application

When extracting information from documents, the software needs to know the business logic of the MFP, otherwise the extracted information will be useless. When the business logic is applied, MFP extractors will be able to extract the relevant business information from the document. This is because the business logic is used to identify the relevant business information and extract it from the document.

The business logic is implemented through a series of business logic rules. These rules are defined in the Business Logic Editor and determine the relationship with your specific business logic. These business logic rules define the relevant components and the extracted pages to extract based on your specific requirements.

Business Logic Editor

The Business Logic Editor is used to define the business logic rules. It is a graphical interface that allows you to define business logic rules using a visual editor. This visual editor provides a graphical interface for defining the business logic rules. The following table summarizes the main business logic rules that are supported in Business Logic Editor.

Business Logic Editor Rules

Business logic rules define the logic for extracting information from the document. These rules are defined in the Business Logic Editor and are used to extract the relevant business information from the document.
