Merve Hickok, 2024-10-21 This book is an early warning to public officials, policymakers and procurement practitioners on the impact of AI on the public sector. Many governments have established national AI strategies and set ambitious goals to incorporate AI into the public infrastructure while lacking AI-specific procurement guidelines. AI is not traditional software and traditional processes are not sufficient to meet the challenges AI brings. Therefore, guardrails are necessary to consider the socio-technical dimensions and impact on individuals, communities and society at large. It is crucial that public sector decision makers understand the emerging risks of AI systems, the impact on the agency and the wider public infrastructure and have the means to independently validate vendor claims. This book is a result of interviews with more than 20 public procurement professionals across countries offering an in-depth analysis of the risks, incidents, governance practices and emerging good practices around the world and provides valuable procurement policy and process recommendations to address and mitigate these risks.
