

DESCRIPTION—The Vertex is an inductor type magnetic lathe-motor, having magnets provided with automatic spark advance and designed to replace the battery ignition system used on our models. The entire assembly consists of coil, automatic advance mechanism, breaker and distributor to be mounted in a cylindrical case and to stand with a standard 14A type mounting on the drive end. It is mounted in place of the battery distributor on the engine in special position below the Ford engine. As with other magneto, ignition is cut off by grounding the coil primary and in most cases a special switch must be located for this purpose.

OPERATION.—The rotating magnet with laminated poles is mounted on the various shafts directly above the automatic advance mechanism so that the poles of the magnet pass across the lower ends of the pole pieces. The pole pieces are alternately long connected to upper end of coil cores and short connected to lower end of coil cores so that the magnetic flux through the coil cores is reversed as the magnet pole passes from one pole piece to the next. At the point where the magnetic flux is strongest, the breaker contacts open, interrupting the primary current and inducing a high tension current in the secondary winding. The secondary current is fed to the distributor relay by the lead on the side of the magnetic core and is distributed to the current spark plug. The distributor head (at top of motor) and breaker assembly under distributor head are similar in design to conventional battery ignition units. The automatic advance unit uses conventional weights of the usual design and advances the entire mechanism (magnet, breaker cam, and motor) in accordance with the engine speed.

INSTALLATION.—Timing of the magnets after installation will be simplified if the engine is cranked to its power driving position before the battery distributor is removed. With all ignition on compression, every engine over 2000 indicates just begins to open its semi-automatic type, please spark control lever to full retard position. Remove distributor, take off drive gear, or coupling, transfer to Vortex and, after long and clearance between distributor and lower end of Vortex housing. Install Vortex on engine and do not tighten clamp bolt, rotate magnetic housing until rotor is opposite #1 terminal in distributor head (if it terminals is marked on head) and contacts begin to open. Tighten clamp bolt to hold magnetic housing in this position. Disconnect spark plug at distributor with timing order of engine side and repeat for timing order for each magnet. Distributor head is of the side exploded type but head is mounted to maintain clearance between terminals and contacts.

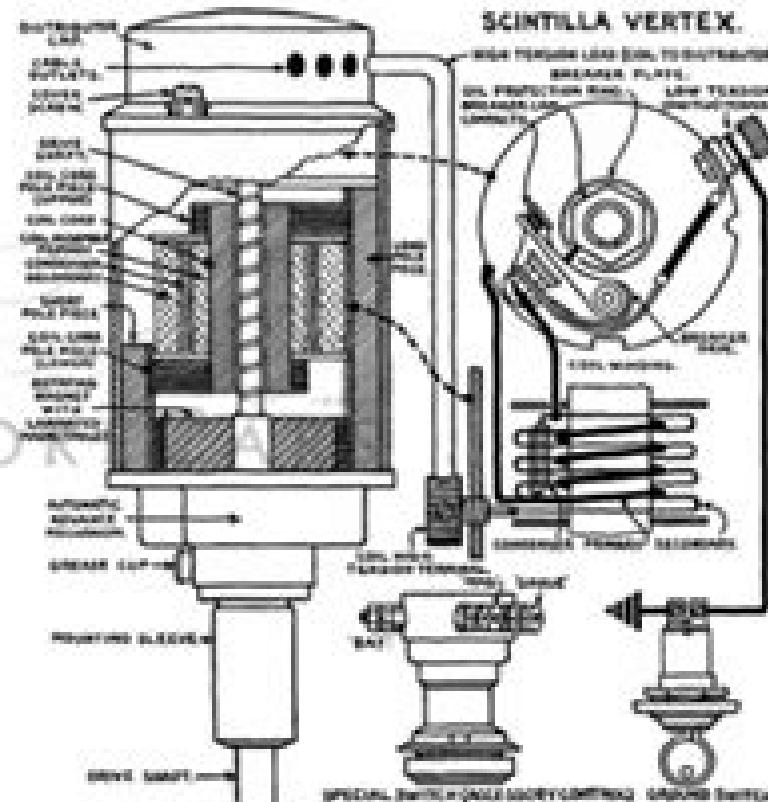

negative binding can be checked with engine operating without fuel load by connecting clamp lead and rotating magnet. Increasing negative connection of rotation to advancing spark until engine begins to knock. Magnet should then be rotated in direction of rotation until knock is eliminated, and the clamp lead tightened. The drive gear or coupling can be changed on shaft to reduce the position of the distributor from center to center, but the position of the breaker cam on the shaft should not be changed from end to end, in relation to position of magnet lead and gear to magnet.

SHUTTING.— Lubrication.—The Vortex shaft is lubricated by a grease cup at the lower end. Grease cup should be refilled with light type grease and turned down once each 1000 miles or 50 hours of operation. Two 1000 lubricants saturated with oil are located on the flywheel plate under the distributor head. If oil does not show on the surface of the lubricators when they are present, apply one drop of gasoline right off to each 1000. Keep oil off flywheel plate.

Breaker Contacts: Support contacts at 20,000-watts or 1000-hour periods. Check gap with breaker arms set take of rated. Check should be 100% of written rating of 100-1000'. Adjust by increasing current on stationary contact according breaker and station position of breaker. Tighten screws after making adjustment. Do not over-tighten contacts unless badly pitted.

SPECIAL FEATURES.—The "Twin" magnet is controlled by a ground switch which carries through which is diverted. The switch is turned "on" by breaking the circuit through the switch, and "off" by completing the circuit through the switch so that the breaker contacts are short-circuited and the primary winding grounded steadily.

On our models fitted with location switch control of accessories, such as generator, lights, etc., it is often desired to have a switch circuit, it will be necessary to connect these to some other machine or switch the switch TYPE 3V switch, furnished by the Reliance Company, which has additional "Start" (momentary) and "Stop" terminals.
