Biodiversity of Antarctic and Subantarctic Ecosystems Claudia Soledad Maturana, Hamish Spencer, Tamara Contador, Peter Convey, Julieta Orlando, 2025-12-05 Ecosystems are currently experiencing multiple anthropogenic pressures making it difficult to distinguish the effect of climate change on biodiversity from other factors such as habitat loss and degradation pollution and overexploitation In this context the Antarctic and Sub Antarctic regions ASA are among the most pristine areas in the world making them key to understanding assessing and predicting the effect of climate change on biodiversity and ecosystem services The objectives of this research topic are to identify the effects of past climatic changes on the evolution and biogeography of the ASA regions and at the same time to protect the future of this biodiversity evaluating potential changes in distribution and risks of extinction of native species as well as the establishment of exotic species This research topic targets authors interested in contributing to the multidisciplinary knowledge of Antarctic and sub Antarctic biodiversity and ecosystems We ask authors to contribute to this article collection by focusing on 1 Origin and diversification of Antarctic and sub Antarctic biodiversity 2 Impact of glacial cycles on the ASA biodiversity 3 Connectivity across the Southern Ocean 4 Physiological responses to climate changes 5 Distribution shifts and extinction risks 6 Anthropogenic climate change and other direct human impacts on ASA biodiversity 7 Science for decision making in biodiversity conservation practices 8 Governance of biodiversity in ASA Type of Research 1 Original Research 2 Brief Research Report 3 Review 4 Perspective 5 Mini Review Restoration of Coastal Marine Ecosystems Ronald Osinga, Bernadette Pogoda, Roberto Danovaro, Alison Debney, 2024-09-23 Human health and wellbeing cannot be sustained without proper ecosystem functioning and high biodiversity is essential to maintain such functioning Worldwide unsustainable exploitation of natural resources by a growing human population has imposed serious pressures on ecosystem integrity To change the tide the United Nations declared the current decade as the UN Decade of Ecosystem Restoration with the aim of supporting and scaling up efforts to prevent halt and reverse the degradation of ecosystems worldwide Large scale active ecosystem restoration actions will be needed to achieve these ambitious aims Whereas methodologies for systemic restoration of terrestrial ecosystems have been established marine ecosystem restoration is still a young field of science although rapidly emerging This Research Topic proposal aims to provide a platform for the growing number of marine scientists involved in marine ecosystem restoration The Research Topic will focus on coastal ecosystems such as mangrove forests salt marshes seagrass beds kelp forests shellfish reefs and coral reefs but will also welcome studies on nearshore environments such as shelf seas Mediterranean coralligenous habitats and mesophotic reefs ESA Newsletter ,1993 Transactions and Proceedings and Report of the Philosophical Society of Adelaide, South Australia Royal Society of South Australia, 2001 NOFA-NY News ,1992 Research Centers Directory ,1986 Research institutes foundations centers bureaus laboratories experiment stations and other similar nonprofit facilities organizations and
