Cancer Metabolism: Molecular Targeting and Implications for Therapy Shanmugasundaram Ganapathy-Kanniappan,2017-11-03

Development of an effective anticancer therapeutic necessitates the selection of cancer related or cancer specific pathways or molecules that are sensitive to intervention Several such critical yet sensitive molecular targets have been recognized and their specific antagonists or inhibitors validated as potential therapeutics in preclinical models Yet majority of anticancer principles or therapeutics show limited success in the clinical translation Thus the need for the development of an effective therapeutic strategy persists Altered energy metabolism in cancer is one of the earliest known biochemical phenotypes which dates back to the early 20th century The German scientist Otto Warburg and his team Warburg Wind Negelein 1926 Warburg Wind Negelein 1927 provided the first evidence that the glucose metabolism of cancer cells diverge from normal cells This phenomenal discovery on deregulated glucose metabolism or cellular bioenergetics is frequently witnessed in majority of solid malignancies Currently the altered glucose metabolism is used in the clinical diagnosis of cancer through positron emission tomography PET imaging Thus the deregulated bioenergetics is a clinically relevant metabolic signature of cancer cells hence recognized as one of the hallmarks of cancer Hanahan and Weinberg 2011 Accumulating data unequivocally demonstrate that besides cellular bioenergetics cancer metabolism facilitates several cancer related processes including metastasis therapeutic resistance and so on Recent reports also demonstrate the oncogenic regulation of glucose metabolism e g glycolysis indicating a functional link between neoplastic growth and cancer metabolism Thus cancer metabolism which is already exploited in cancer diagnosis remains an attractive target for therapeutic intervention as well The Frontiers in Oncology Research Topic Cancer Metabolism Molecular Targeting and Implications for Therapy emphases on recent advances in our understanding of metabolic reprogramming in cancer and the recognition of key molecules for therapeutic targeting Besides the topic also deliberates the implications of metabolic targeting beyond the energy metabolism of cancer The research topic integrates a series of reviews mini reviews and original research articles to share current perspectives on cancer metabolism and to stimulate an open forum to discuss potential challenges and future directions of research necessary to develop effective anticancer strategies Acknowledgment I sincerely thank the Frontiers for providing the opportunity and constant support throughout the process of this research topic and eBook production I gratefully acknowledge all the authors for their valuable contributions Finally I would like to thank my brother Saravana Kumar G K whose personal sacrifices and unflinching encouragement made my career in science possible References

Beigh, 2023-11-10 This book examines the interactions of nanomaterials with the biological system. The chapters of the book explore the natural and synthetic biomaterials that modulate immune responses for their applications in drug delivery and tissue engineering. Further the book discusses the implications of the physicochemical properties of nanoparticles and their microenvironment on their interactions with biological systems. The chapters also present the cognitive capabilities of biomaterials for the development of novel strategies for the detection and treatment of autoimmune disorders. The book also introduces nanotechnology platforms for drug delivery and highlights current and emerging nanotechnologies that could enable novel classes of therapeutics. Towards the end the book reviews the efficiency of drug loaded nanoparticles in modulating the functioning of the biological milieu for improved disease treatment. Lastly the book outlines the ethical issues regarding the use of nanoparticles for in vitro and in vivo applications. Given its scope it is a valuable resource for graduate students and researchers interested in understanding the biomedical applications of nanoparticles and their interactions with the biological milieu Challenges in Balancing Government and

Investor Interests Under a Production Sharing Agreement Nzila Masunga Masunga,2017-07-14 Seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject Business economics Law language English abstract This paper argues that although the government is fully confident that there has been enough exploration success to justify higher government take and increase other socio economic benefits under the new terms there remain challenges towards encouraging foreign investment in petroleum exploration and development activities in the country A critical aspect of an oil and gas exploration and production agreement is balancing the interests of the state and investors The broad objective of any resource rich government is to insure that it maximizes as much revenues as possible from its natural resource and insuring that there is always an appropriate level of investment in exploration and development activities in the country The investors on the other hand are interested to maximize as much profit as possible by minimizing the costs quick recovery of these costs and working with stable governments In order to ensure a sustainable development of exploration and development activities in the country these varying state and investor s interest has to be balanced Document Boston (Mass.),1908 Documents of the City of Boston Boston (Mass.).
