supply chain disruptions and economic downturns. These challenges have necessitated swift and adaptive responses from NGOs which play a critical role in providing essential services and support to vulnerable populations. This study examines the impact of the pandemic on the implementation of RBM within the not for profit sector in Zimbabwe. The study focuses on not for profit organizations NPOs whose importance in a nation's development cannot be understated. A concurrent mixed methods approach was employed using a survey of 190 NPOs, in depth interviews and focus group discussions with NPOs staff. Quantitative data were analyzed using descriptive statistics and inferential statistics with Chi square test of association while thematic analysis was done for qualitative data. The findings reveal essential influences of COVID 19 on NPOs ability to implement RBM identifying key factors influencing effectiveness during the pandemic including organizational flexibility, donor support and communication strategies. Additionally it highlights the need for strengthened capacities such as data analysis skills and potentially adjusted incentive structures to support effective RBM. The study underscores the inherent challenges of RBM during a crisis including uncertainty, competing priorities and the potential focus on short term relief. This research contributes to a greater understanding of the challenges and opportunities for NPOs implementing RBM during a global crisis. The findings offer valuable insights for NPOs, donors and policymakers to strengthen RBM practices and ensure continued effectiveness in achieving impactful results.
