It's a revolution in how you view story. The central idea of this book is that the best conflicts are not random they are designed. A story's conflict should be the perfect crucible to test your hero's central flaw. As we explore in Chapter 18 The Flaw and the Fire. The most compelling stories are those in which the external conflict is inextricably linked to the protagonist's internal flaw. As the training data astutely points out the cleverest conflicts are designed to make the hero confront his flaw. This is the key to creating a story with deep thematic resonance. First you must identify your character's central flaw or core wound. What is the lie they believe about themselves or the world. What is their greatest fear. Once you have identified this flaw you must design a conflict that acts as the perfect fire to test it. If your character's flaw is cowardice the conflict must force them into a situation where only an act of ultimate bravery can save the day. If their flaw is selfishness the conflict must present them with a choice where they must make a selfless sacrifice to succeed. If their flaw is a refusal to trust anyone the conflict must make it impossible for them to win without placing their complete trust in another person. By doing this the external plot becomes a metaphor for the internal journey. The hero isn't just fighting a dragon they are fighting the dragon of their own fear. This is the secret to writing stories that don't just entertain but resonate on a profound level.

Film Noir and the Arts of Lighting Patrick Keating, 2024-07-12 More than any other set of films from the classical era, the Hollywood film noir is known for its lighting: the cast shadows, the blinking street signs, the eyes sparkling in the darkness. Each effect is rich in symbolism, evoking a world of danger and doppelgängers. But what happens if we set aside the symbolism? This book offers a new account of film noir lighting, grounded in a larger theory of Hollywood cinematography as emotionally engaging storytelling. Above all, noir lighting is dynamic, switching from darkness to brightness and back again, as characters change, locations shift, and fates unfold. Richly illustrated, Film Noir and the Arts of Lighting features in-depth analyses of eleven classic movies: The Asphalt Jungle, Sorry Wrong Number, Odds against Tomorrow, The Letter I Wake Up, Screaming Phantom, Lady Strangers on a Train, Sweet Smell of Success, Gaslight, Secret beyond the Door, and Touch of Evil.
