There's also one other reason to support offshore power: Many big investors—especially those tied to China and its burgeoning economy, but also those globally oriented private-equity firms—have clustered themselves with offshore wind projects, giving us all access. (See www.ewind.com.)

The only spontaneous interaction theory (and one not supported with extensive changes) that can easily be understood by business managers would be represented by column 3, but only for that small number.

differs according to groups of parents. The authors also present a table listing the respondents' education, income, and ethnicity and a table showing the results of the regression analysis.

How? Well, by listening, really, and hearing each other out. And that's what we're going to do today.
