

“The Great Gatsby”

OF THE attempts to portray these restless moderns whose cynicisms and infidelities keep ~~com~~ mity howlers hoarse none is more moving than “The Great Gatsby,” a story from the pen of F. Scott Fitzgerald, which begins in the Altoona Tribune Monday morning.

The story centers around a married couple who did not think that marriage was what it used to be—at least he said so. She had gone wrong just once with the Great Gatsby before he went to war. Then she married Tom. After the marriage Tom devoted himself to the chauffeur’s wife and was quite a gay dog. It seems that she had loved Tom after her affair with Gatsby and used to sit on the sand with his head in her lap—until she discovered that he loved the chambermaid. Then comes Longuyland with Gatsby as host at a palatial home which seemed to be run by bootleggery. There were drunken parties—everybody sang and swore and got drunk. The heroine spent much time with her erstwhile Gatsby, and her husband kissed the chauffeur’s wife. Then the big scene. Tired of her husband’s perfidy, the heroine came to Gatsby and offered herself to him. Later it is shown that Gatsby is a bootlegger, the chauffeur shoots him and there are many other thrilling episodes.

The story is well written—as only Mr. Fitzgerald can do—and the initial installment will appear in the Tribune beginning Monday morning. Don’t fail to read the opening installment—you will finish the story. Of that there is no question.

Stanley, 2004-10-30 This bibliography extends the work of Stanley's first volume The Foreign Critical Reputation of F. Scott Fitzgerald: An Analysis and Annotated Bibliography to the final two decades of the 20th century. It includes literature from the former countries of the USSR, Romania, India, and Canada, as well as countries that were covered in the first volume such as Britain, France, Italy, Germany, and Japan. One of the major findings that emerges is that Fitzgerald's poetic prose is extremely difficult to translate, but new translations continue to appear. The introduction to this volume provides a synthesis of Fitzgerald scholarship abroad at the turn of the 21st century and points to new directions already suggested that may represent challenges to current scholarship. An extended analysis introduces each chapter. Each chapter also includes a chronological list of translations and editions of Fitzgerald's work from his earliest appearances in print to those appearing in 2000. The most substantial section of each chapter features fairly detailed annotations of monographs, collections, book chapters, essays, conference papers, articles, reviews, and school editions. This compilation will intrigue anyone interested in the work of F. Scott Fitzgerald.

The online hub www.weeklyworldnews.com is a leading entertainment news site News Media and the Financial Crisis Adam Cox, 2022-05-25 This book explores how leading news media responded to the 2008 financial crisis and its aftermath, showing how journalists regularly framed discussions about post-crisis regulatory reform in ways that reinforced the same market liberal policy paradigm that had ushered in the crisis. Drawing on an analysis of nearly three years of news coverage and on interviews with journalists who covered the financial crash for major media groups, Adam Cox demonstrates how this framing of issues often focused on the costs of tighter regulation rather than the preventive benefits, forming the basis of a post-crisis narrative in the United States that undermined the role of the state despite the wreckage that had just occurred. He looks at how state actors, think tanks, and the financial industry worked in concert to encourage such a narrative, ultimately lending support to a market liberal worldview that was being seriously challenged for the first time in decades. While highlighting journalists' ability to resist agenda-building efforts by powerful actors, this book offers a methodology for considering media narratives based on quantitative analysis of framing patterns. News Media and the Financial Crisis is aimed at students and researchers working at the intersection of communications, journalism, political economy, and public policy.
