commonly accepted aims of the use of law justifiable Which kinds of behavior are justifiably prohibited which kinds justifiably required What uses of law are not defensible How can the legitimacy or the illegitimacy of various uses of law be explained or accounted for These are questions the answering of which involves one in many issues of moral principle for the answers require that one adopt positions even if only implicitly on further questions of what kinds of actions or policies are morally or ethically acceptable The present work aimed at questions of these kinds is thus a study in the ethical evaluation of major uses of legal coercion It is an attempt to provide a framework within which many questions about the proper uses of law may be fruitfully discussed The framework if successful can be used by anyone asking questions about the defensibility of particular or general uses of law whether from the perspective of someone considering whether to bring about some new legal provision from the perspective of someone concerned to evaluate an existing provision or from that of someone concerned more abstractly with questions about the appropriate substance of an ideal legal system In addressing these and associated issues I shall be exploring the extent to which an ethics based on respect for persons and their autonomy can handle satisfactorily the problems arising here
