Edited by Butler Marian, Marian Butler

River Of Ink An Illustrated History Of Literacy:

River of Ink Thomas Christensen, 2014-10-20 With its title harkening back to the sack of Baghdad in 1258 when the Tigris ran black with the ink of books flung into the water by Mongol invaders River of Ink is a collection of essays that range widely across time and cultures to illuminate the role of literature and art throughout history Christensen draws from a panoply of subjects from the writings of prehistoric Chinese cultures known only through archaeology to the heroic efforts of contemporary Afghans to keep the legacy of their ancient culture alive under the barrage of endless war Christensen's encyclopedic knowledge of world art and vast understanding of literature allows him to move easily from a discussion of the invention of moveable type in Korea to Johannes Kepler's search for the harmony of the spheres to the strange journey of an iron sculpture from Benin to the Louvre Other essays cover the Popol Vuh of the Maya as exemplum of translation the pioneering explorations of the early American naturalist John Bartram and the balletic works of Louis Ferdinand Celine It is Christensen's gift to see the world whole to offer a wealth of connections vital for us as citizens of a rapidly globalizing world

The Oxford Illustrated History of the Book James Raven, 2020-07-31 In 14 original essays The Oxford Illustrated History of the Book reveals the history of books in all their various forms from the ancient world to the digital present Leading international scholars offer an original and richly illustrated narrative that is global in scope The history of the book is the history of millions of written printed and illustrated texts their manufacture distribution and reception Here are different types of production from clay tablets to scrolls from inscribed codices to printed books pamphlets magazines and newspapers from written parchment to digital texts The history of the book is a history of different methods of circulation and dissemination all dependent on innovations in transport from coastal and transoceanic shipping to roads trains planes and the internet It is a history of different modes of reading and reception from learned debate and individual study to public instruction and entertainment It is a history of manufacture craftsmanship dissemination reading and debate Yet the history of books is not simply a question of material form nor indeed of the history of reading and reception The larger question is of the effect of textual production distribution and reception of how books themselves made history To this end each chapter of this volume succinctly bounded by period and geography offers incisive and stimulating insights into the relationship between books and the story of their times

The Early Modern City 1450-1750 Christopher R. Friedrichs, 2014-06-06 A pioneering text which covers the urban society of early modern Europe as a whole Challenges the usual emphasis on regional diversity by stressing the extent to which cities across Europe shared a common urban civilization whose major features remained remarkably constant throughout the period After outlining the physical political religious economic and demographic parameters of urban life the author vividly depicts the everyday routines of city life and shows how pitifully vulnerable city dwellers were to disasters epidemics warfare and internal strife Recommended Literature California. Engaging Undergraduates in Primary Source Research Lijuan Xu, 2021-09-07 Despite the plethora of primary sources that libraries have made available to their communities the published literature thus far is largely limited to the pedagogical significance of special collections and archives To leverage the wealth of primary sources and to explore the full potential of primary sources in the undergraduate classroom it is imperative that the conversation include faculty members as well as librarians outside special collections and archives The ten case studies included in Engaging Undergraduates in Primary Source Research represent the exciting work of faculty members and their librarian partners from various areas of library operations They offer examples strategies and innovative ways to incorporate a wide range of primary materials into undergraduates diet of secondary source research including both local archival and non archival materials as well as digital and physical materials and non English language materials Co authored by faculty and their librarian partners these case studies focus on how students develop and practice skills related to finding and identifying primary information analyzing and interrogating it confronting interpretations and constructing and presenting arguments using primary sources The emphasis on transferrable skills as well as the diversity of primary sources and teaching areas they represent makes it easy for anyone interested to find examples from which they can draw guidance and inspiration to form partnerships and to reinvigorate students learning experiences involving primary sources Furthermore the collaborative process and the methods to engage students in primary source research that are highlighted in these stories are not unique to primary sources They can be easily applied in other collaborative teaching efforts involving different types of information to create skilled student researchers adept information producers and informed citizens
