Imagine a giant box is delivered to your front doorstep with your name on it. What's inside and what happens when you open it?

Write a short story about what it might be like if you woke up one morning with a mermaid tail.

Write about what would it be like if you had an alligator as a pet.

If you were in charge of the whole world, what would you do to make the world a happier place?

Imagine that dogs take over the world. What do they make the humans do?

Write about 3 places you would like to travel someday. What do these three places have in common?

Write a poem that starts with the word "I".

How do you feel when someone takes something of yours without asking? What is a good way to deal with it when that happens?

Imagine you walk out your front door one morning and it is raining popcorn! What do you do?

Open Admissions Danica Savonick,2024-07-05 In Open Admissions Danica Savonick traces the largely untold story of the teaching experience of Toni Cade Bambara June Jordan Audre Lorde and Adrienne Rich at the City University of New York cuny in the late 1960s and early 1970s This period during which cuny guaranteed tuition free admission to every city high school graduate was one of the most controversial in US educational history Analyzing their archival teaching materials syllabi lesson plans and assignments alongside their published work Savonick reveals how these renowned writers were also transformative educators who developed creative methods of teaching their students to navigate and change the world In fact many of their methods such as student led courses collaborative public projects and the publication of student writing anticipated the kinds of student centered and antiracist pedagogies that have become popular in recent years In addition to recovering the pedagogical legacy of these writers Savonick shows how teaching in cuny s free and open classrooms fundamentally altered their writing and with it the course of American literature and feminist criticism

Understanding Young People's Writing Development Ellen Krogh, Karen Sonne Jakobsen, 2019-05-07 This collection offers an inclusive multifaceted look at individual students' patterns of writing trajectories as well as their development of an identity as a writer. Building on rare longitudinal research, this translated text explores how adolescents learn subjects through writing and learn writing through subjects. Contributors consider issues relating to different forms of writing and grapple with students' ambivalence or resistance to this at school together, offering an examination of how the education system can rise to the challenge of offering today's students meaningful and appropriate writing instruction. Bringing knowledge from writing researchers and educational researchers together, Understanding Young People's Writing Development explores Young adults' complicated experiences with the school writing project. Practices, purposes and identification in student note writing, Knowledge construction in writing as experience and educational aim, The pedagogical challenges and perspectives of writing and writer development, Creativity as experience and potential in writing development. The impact of digital technologies and media on student writing. Using students' work to aid the understanding of practice, this book will help highlight the importance of viewing individual writer developments from a social, institutional and societal context and raise questions that will advance writing pedagogy and the teaching and learning of school subjects.

Ideas and Insights Dorothy Jo Watson, 1987 Intended to provide elementary school language arts teachers with new and interesting teaching activities, this book contains over 100 teacher tested classroom activities that are based on the whole language approach to learning. Chapters discuss the following: 1. a world of language in use, 2. literature points the way, including themes and organization, literature and experience and extended literature, 3. making sense by reading, including predictions and expectations, reading awareness and control, invitations to read and music, drama and reading, 4. writing for self expression, 5. learning to write by writing, 6. writing for an audience, including developing a sense of audience and messages, notes and letters, 7. reading writing, listening and speaking across the curriculum, including language arts across the curriculum and reading and writing newspapers, 8. kids helping other kids, the collaborative effort, including cooperative learning and games and holiday activities, 9. home is where the start is and 10. valuing and evaluating learners and their language. The 15 page bibliography contains sections on read aloud books, wordless books, extending literature and reading leading to writing, predictable language, predictable life experience books for upper elementary children, sing along books, children's magazines and publishers of children's writing. A list of teaching activities in the book is included. SKC

Navigating Gender and Sexuality in the Classroom Heather Killelea McEntarfer, 2016-01-08 Gender identity and sexuality play crucial roles in the educational experiences of students, parents and teachers. Teacher education must more directly address the ways that schools reflect and reproduce oppressive gender norms working to combat homophobia, transphobia, heteronormativity and gendered expectations in schools. This volume examines teacher candidates' experiences with gender and sexuality in the classroom offering insight and strategies to better prepare teachers and teacher educators to support LGBTQ youth and families This volume addresses the need for broader more in depth qualitative data describing teacher candidates responses to diversity in the classroom including gender sexuality race class and religion By using pedagogical tools such as narrative writing and positioning theory teacher candidates explore these issues to better understand their own students narratives in deeply embodied ways This book calls for schools to be places where oppression in all its complexity is explored and challenged rather than replicated

Ways of Writing with Young Kids Sharon A. Edwards, Robert W. Maloy, Ruth-Ellen Verock-O'Loughlin, 2003 Ways of Writing with Young Kids presents ideas and strategies for teaching children how to write creatively in fiction, nonfiction, and poetry conventionally using standard spelling, punctuation, and sentence structures and confidently as they learn the roles and rules of written language. Ways of Writing with Young Kids is uniquely organized in twenty three ways of writing that expand beyond one particular area. Giving readers a new perspective, the authors adhere to a unique and easy to follow system. The Five C's of Children's Writing: Coaching, Creativity, Conventions, Choice, and Confidence. Written in an easy to read format, the book explains writing ideas and strategies clearly and concisely in an open ended, easy to do and engaging style that offers readers lots of flexibility of how to use the activities with their children.

Elementary school teacher Creative Programming Ideas for Junior High Ministry Steve Dickie, Darrell Pearson, 1993-01-31 Gives ideas for Sunday school, youth meetings, small groups, camps, retreats, and service projects. Dickie and Pearson help readers to a better understanding of children how to handle roadblocks to creative programming and how to tap into the reader's own creative abilities

Teaching Reading as a Language Experience Mary Anne Hall, 1976 The purpose of this book, as stated in the preface to the first edition, was to describe this approach and to identify instructional practices which can be followed in teaching reading in the language experience approach. That purpose remains as the central focus in this edition. The major difference between the editions is the expansion of the theoretical foundations of language experience communication and the extension of instructional suggestions. The section on prereading has been expanded so as to give greater attention to language experience activities prior to beginning reading

Learning, 1985

Educational Assessment of Students Anthony J. Nitko, Susan M. Brookhart, 2007 From two of the best known authors in the field of classroom assessment comes a revision of one of the best assessment books. Features include hundreds of examples, directions for crafting both traditional and alternative assessments, checklists for evaluating classroom assessments, scores of strategies for assessing problem solving and critical thinking, methods for aligning classroom assessment with state standards and NCLB requirements. Reviewers have described the book as the best on the market for its completeness and balanced approach to classroom assessment

Iowa English Bulletin, 1984 Finding Wisdom Gertrude Hartman, 1938

English Journal, 2004 Preludes to Insight Ronda Leathers Dively, 2006 This book is a study of creative drive and creative cognition in the context of expository composing processes. Highlighting incubation, the second stage of the creative process as a crucial but often misconstrued and or neglected event in the quest for insight the author explores the nature of this elusive phenomenon from various angles while also forwarding an argument of special significance to teachers of writing A pedagogy informed by incubation theory can uniquely and profoundly assist students in negotiating the complex demands of producing text that rises above what might be labeled perfunctory or mundane
