LNG Offshore Production and Regasification Stuart Beadnall,John Simpson,Max Lemanski,2025-04-23 This is the first book to focus on the law and practice relating to the production and delivery of liquified natural gas LNG using offshore floating facilities This segment of the offshore oil and gas industry has been growing over recent years and has now assumed special importance in the wake of interruption to international gas supplies with a number of countries turning to importing LNG through floating offshore regasification units in order to protect their energy security The reader will gain a thorough understanding of the operational risks as far as these are relevant to contractual obligations and potential liabilities The book draws on the relevant maritime and commercial law applying this with specific focus on the requirements of offshore facilities liquefying carrying and storing a cargo at 162 C then regasifying and transferring the same onshore The contracts relating to the operation of these facilities mirror some aspects of conventional LNG vessel charters but include important additional features specific to offshore LNG operations The discharge of LNG from a sea going vessel into a receiving floating storage and regasification unit FSRU and the storage and regasification of LNG into the receiving pipeline may be problematic and lead to significant commercial consequences if there is underperformance The allocation of related risks as between the LNG owner and the FSRU operator and other interested parties is analysed in this book The authors also consider the specific legal issues pertaining to production of LNG offshore in a floating facility FLNG and the role of LNG as a transition fuel used to meet current low carbon targets This book will be invaluable to legal practitioners advising clients engaged in developing and operating offshore LNG projects project managers and related insurers financiers and commercial parties It will also be of direct relevance to gas production distribution and utility companies and to maritime commercial centres

International Law and the Protection of People at Sea Irini Papanicolopulu,2018-03-09 Media interest in the fates of people at sea has heightened across the last decade The attacks and the hostage taking of victims by Somali pirates and the treatment of migrants and asylum seekers in the Mediterranean ask pressing questions as does the sinking of the Costa Concordia off the Italian island of Giglio which one hundred years after the Titanic capsized reminded the world that despite modern navigation systems and technology shipping is still fallible Do pirates have human rights Can migrants at sea be turned back to the State from which they have sailed How can the crews of vessels be protected against inhuman and degrading working and living conditions And are States liable under international human rights treaties for arresting drug traffickers on the high seas The first text to comprehensively compare the legal rights of different people at sea Irini Papanicolopulu s timely text argues that there is an overarching duty of the state to protect people at sea and adopt all necessary acts with a view towards ensuring enjoyment of their rights Rather than being in doubt she reveals that the emerging law in this area is watertight
