Challenging Anthropocentrism in Eco-Science Fiction Novels Fatma Gamze Erkan, 2024-01-03 This book explores the relationship between humanity and nature while challenging the notion that anthropocentric behaviour causes the environmental catastrophes depicted in the four selected British eco science fiction novels. These novels are John Christopher's The Death of Grass 1956, J G Ballard's The Drought 1965, Brian Aldiss's Earthworks 1965, and John Brunner's The Sheep Look Up 1972, all of which fictionalise the fact that the consequences of environmental problems can be diverse but equally serious. This book examines how even the smallest damage caused by human beings to the environment negatively affects them, other living beings, and the ecosystem they need to live and flourish. In conjunction with these factors and conditions that push characters in the novels to ignore and harm the environment are also scrutinised. While examining how and why the environmental problems in the novels have arisen, it is evaluated whether the authors propose solutions to these problems and if so, what they are.

Fire From The Sky Story Karri Sauber, 2021-06-11 Character development in a post-apocalypse novel. What a bizarre concept! Okay, if you are reading this for any prepping tips, look elsewhere. This one was all about having won the lottery and throwing literally millions at the problem. Yet another only-the-rich-deserve-to-survive propaganda piece. Except, this is by far one of the better ones because of its characters. Half the book was just about them before any preps began.

American Survivor Aj Newman, 2018-01-15 The North Koreans launch a surprise Nuclear EMP attack on the USA. Joe Harp had a cabin and land in Southern Oregon when everything goes bad and retreats to the cabin to survive the massive die-off that was always predicted for an apocalypse. Now he has to learn how to survive in a Post-Apocalyptic world without military or survival training and to make matters worse, others look to him for support and guidance.

Hope and Kinship in Contemporary Fiction Gero Bauer, 2024-01-11 Explores the emphasis that contemporary novels, films, and television series place on the present, arguing that hope emerges from the potentiality of the here and now rather than the future and as intimately entangled with negotiations of structures of belonging. Taking its cue from an understanding of hope as connoting an organizing temporality, one which is often presumed to be projecting into a future. Hope and Kinship in Contemporary Fiction challenges this understanding, arguing that hope emerges in practices of relationality in the present.

disentangling hope from a necessary correlation with futurity Through close readings of contemporary works including The Road The Walking Dead Cloud Atlas Sense8 The People in the Trees and A Little Life Gero Bauer investigates how these texts explore structures of kinship as creative and affective practices of belonging and care that claim spaces beyond the heterosexual reproductive nuclear family In this context fictional figurations of the child often considered the bearer of the future are of particular interest Through these interventions into definitions of and reflections on fictional manifestations of hope and kinship Bauer s analyses intersect with queer theory new materialism and postcritical approaches to literature and cultural studies moving towards counterintuitively hopeful readings of the present moment
