Change(d) Agents Betty Achinstein, Rodney T.

Ogawa, 2011-06-10 This book examines both the promise and complexity of diversifying today's teaching profession Drawing from a 5 year study of 21 new teachers of colour working in urban hard to staff schools this book uncovers a systemic paradox that the teachers confront They are committed to improving educational opportunities for students of colour by acting as role models culturally linguistically responsive teachers and change agents The teaching profession encouraged such commitments and some teachers acted with support from individual organizational and community based sponsors However many of these new teachers work in schools that are culturally subtractive and have restrictive accountability policies that challenge their ability to perform cultural professional roles to which they are committed Many teachers internalize the contradiction resulting in their becoming changed agents within the educational system they sought to change This book is essential reading for educators leaders and policymakers

Learning They'll Love Elizabeth Agro

Radday, 2025-11-26 Bridge the gap between the classroom and life outside it and build students sense of the purpose and possibility of learning Education is at a crossroads The rapid rise of artificial intelligence is changing the academic landscape and many traditional assignments can now be completed by AI tools with minimal student effort Teachers and parents fear that students aren't being taught critical thinking and aren't being asked to apply it in the classroom. Meanwhile teachers' efforts to engage and motivate are leading to burnout and too many students find themselves increasingly bored and apathetic. This is the perfect time for personal interest projects. PIPs. PIPs are a cousin of project based learning but there's a crucial difference. Students choose their topics themselves through a scaffolded process of exploration and reflection and they pursue goals they set and care about. Given the freedom to learn, make, solve or do something that truly excites them, their motivation is internal and unstoppable. Their engagement is authentic and their learning is real. In Learning They'll Love, PIP pioneer and award winning educator Elizabeth Agro Radday explains the three structured phases of the PIP process: Design, Create and Share, and provides comprehensive guidance and more than 30 practical classroom tested tools to support seamless implementation in grades 5-12 across the content areas and with various school schedules. Ready to help your students master content standards and build the problem solving, time management, collaboration and communication skills that will serve them in any future they choose, Ready to transform their school experience and help them fall in love with learning. PIPs are the answer and this book is your guide.
