

Chapter 6: Memory

Module 6.1 Remembering

Memory Processes: Human Memory as an Information Processing System

--Our memory can be conceptualized as an information processing system split into 3 categories:

1. Encoding: Converting information into a form usable in memory
 - Relies on different sensory modalities, ie: auditory or visual.
 - Sometimes people rely on meaning of incoming information, called semantics
 - ie: might remember key terms better if you try to understand what it means rather than memorizing verbatim
2. Storage: Retaining information in memory
 - How long something is kept depends on system being used
3. Retrieval: Bringing to mind information in memory
 - Where you're accessing conscious information
 - Some memories easier to recall than others, but might be dependent on retrieval cues, which are cues associated with original learning that may facilitate retrieval of these memories

Sensory Memory

- Known as briefest storage system that hold memories of sensory impressions for short period of time ie: sights and sounds
- Memory here lasts from fraction of second to 3-4 seconds
- Considered to be first memory system where info passes through our system into memory storage system

Iconic Memory: where mental representations of an image is held for a fraction of a second

Idetic Memory: AKA photographic memory, where people can look at something quickly and recall this information

Psychology Chapter 6 Memory:

Textbook of Experimental Psychology R. S. Woodworth and A. T. Poffenberger, 1920 The Writer's Book of Memory Janine Rider, 2013-11-05 Memory has long been ignored by rhetoricians because the written word has made memorization virtually obsolete. Recently however as part of a revival of interest in classical rhetoric scholars have begun to realize that memory offers vast possibilities for today's writers. Synthesizing research from rhetoric psychology philosophy and literary and composition studies this volume brings together many historical and contemporary theories of memory. Yet its focus is clear: memory is a generator of knowledge and a creative force which deserves attention at the beginning of and throughout the writing process. This volume emphasizes the importance of recognizing memory's powers in an age in which mass media influence us all and electronic communication changes the way we think and write. It also addresses the importance of the individual memory and voice in an age which promotes conformity. Written in a strong lively personal manner the book covers a great deal of scholarly material. It is never overbearing and the extensive bibliography offers rich vistas for further study.
