Outspoken Conversations On Church Communication:

Outspoken Tim Schraeder, 2011-09-02 A guide for church leaders to improve the communication of their message by leveraging new media to effectively connect people with the gospel      Viral Leonard Sweet, 2012-03-13 The gospel is nothing without relationship And no one gets it like the Google Generation God came to earth to invite us personally into a relationship And while Christians at times downplay relationships the social media generation is completely sold on the idea In Viral Leonard Sweet says Christians need to learn about connecting with others from the experts those who can't seem to stop texting IM'ing tweeting and updating their Facebook statuses What would happen he asks if Christians devoted less attention to strategies and statistics and paid more attention to pursuing relationships The current generation is driven by a God-given desire to know others and to be known by others Most of them in seeking to connect in meaningful ways have found a place of belonging that is outside the organized church Why not bring the two together Those who are sold out to relationships can teach Christians how to be better friends to people who need God At the same time members of the social media generation can learn how to follow their desire for belonging straight into the arms of God It's time for relationship to be restored to the heart of the gospel And when that happens can revival be far behind End of Chapter Interactives Included

Church, State and Society in Kenya Galia Sabar, 2012-12-06 This volume offers a debate on the role of Christianity in post colonial Kenya charting the role of the church state and society in the transformation of Kenya and the relationship between the three It shows how the church initiated health education and economic activities showing it to be a major instrument of transformation      Origins of a Spontaneous Revolution Karl-Dieter Opp, Christiane Gern, Peter Voss, 2025-12-10 November 1989 East Germans danced on the Berlin Wall and the communist regime began to collapse A unique revolution has occurred changes were brought about by peaceful spontaneous demonstrations No group organized the famous gatherings of thousands of people at the Karl Marx Square in Leipzig on October 9 1989 and no government or military attempt was made to crack down on the demonstrations The events of the GDR revolution have been well documented but until now there has been no comprehensive attempt to explain the revolution The authors contend that any explanation must focus on the individual GDR citizen while situating the individual at the focal point of their analysis they demonstrate how political events and reforms in the GDR and neighboring countries motivated citizens to act despite the risk to their lives Applying a version of the theory of rational action that uses soft incentives and individual perceptions the authors select the factors that help explain the GDR revolution New findings include that political discontent not economic was a major cause for participation in the demonstrations Not limiting themselves to theoretical speculations the authors support their arguments with original documents jokes slogans and a unique data set drawn from a representative survey of 1 300 Leipzig residents in 1990 focusing exclusively on the revolutionary period Written in a clear and accessible style this book will be of interest to general readers as well as sociologists historians and political scientists      Asian American Identities, Relationships, and

Post-Migration Legacies Jessica ChenFeng,Lana Kim,2024-10-04 Bringing together the personal and professional narratives of Asian American family therapists this book offers insight into the Asian American experience through systemic theory and frameworks individual and community stories and clinical considerations The Asian American experience is still a largely invisible and unknown one especially in the field of marriage and family therapy With a contextual lens this book highlights how understanding family migration legacies and individual generational status relative to time place and context is critical to doing meaningful work with Asian Americans Filled with thought provoking case studies and reflective questions chapters discuss the impact of stereotyping on mental health the historical and present ways that Asian American racialization invisibilizes individual and collective experiences shame associated with bicultural identity gender generational trauma media representations and more Each chapter bridges these ideas to clinical practice while concurrently centering the voices and experiences of Asian American therapists This book is essential reading for marriage and family therapists and other mental health clinicians who want to deepen their understanding of relationship with and clinical support for the Asian Americans in their lives whether friends colleagues supervisees or clients
