Power Notes Chapter 3:

This is Not Just a Painting Bernard Lahire, 2019-04-15 In 2008 the Musée des Beaux Arts de Lyon acquired a painting called The Flight into Egypt which was attributed to the French artist Nicolas Poussin. Thought to have been painted in 1657, the painting had gone missing for more than three centuries. Several versions were rediscovered in the 1980s and one was passed from hand to hand from a family who had no idea of its value to gallery owners and eventually to the museum. A painting that had been sold as a decorative object in 1986 for around 12 000 euros was acquired two decades later by the Musée des Beaux Arts de Lyon for 17 million euros. What does this remarkable story tell us about the nature of art and the way that it is valued? How is it that what seemed to be just an ordinary canvas could be transformed into a masterpiece that a decorative object could become a national treasure? This is a story permeated by social magic, the social alchemy that transforms lead into gold, the ordinary into the extraordinary, the profane into the sacred. Focusing on this extraordinary case, Bernard Lahire lays bare the beliefs and social processes that underpin the creation of a masterpiece. Like a detective piecing together the clues in an unsolved mystery, he carefully reconstructs the steps that led from the same material object being treated as a copy of insignificant value to being endowed with the status of a highly prized painting commanding a record-breaking price. He thereby shows that a painting is never just a painting and is always more than a piece of stretched canvas to which brush strokes of paint have been applied. This object and the value we attach to it is also the product of a complex array of social processes with its distinctive institutions and experts that lies behind it. And through the history of this painting, Lahire uncovers some of the fundamental structures of our social world. For the social magic that can transform a painting from a simple copy into a masterpiece is similar to the social magic that is present throughout our societies in economics and politics as much as art and religion, a magic that results from the spell cast by power on those who tacitly recognize its authority. By following the trail of a single work of art, Lahire interrogates the foundations on which our perceptions of value and our belief in institutions rest and exposes the forms of domination which lie hidden behind our admiration of works of art.

Decentralizing Energy Decisions Ellis Cose, 2019-04-09 Decision making about energy has come to epitomize a larger struggle taking place in U.S. society: a struggle for control over individual destiny, economic resources and the shaping of society itself. A host of ideologies has been spawned: new federalism and new populism among them. Many activist groups argue that making decisions about resources can be a first step in helping people gain control of their lives. Focusing on the issues surrounding the control of energy and discussing the limitations and advantages of dealing with the energy problem at the local level, the author examines the proposition that granting control over decision making to cities, states or regions rather than to the federal government can positively affect public confidence as well as result in more efficient energy planning. Mr. Cose discusses the various interpretations of decentralization, the relationship between decentralization and small scale technologies, the overlapping and opposing interests of governments, consumers and corporations and the extent to which local governments and political structures are prepared to deal with an issue that is traditionally outside of their sphere The author supports his analysis by looking at specific municipal governments and their attempts successes and failures to respond to the energy crisis He also analyzes the particular problems of community projects Throughout the book he comments on the effect that Reagan administration policies have had on decision making about energy at all levels of government nationwide

International Peacekeeping In Lebanon Ramesh Thakur,2019-04-09 Examining the efficacy of U N peace efforts Dr Ramesh Thakur compares limited peacekeeping through U N authority with more coercive means such as the Multinational Force MNF in Lebanon He finds that the role of the U S led MNF coalition cannot be justified in terms of great power responsibility for ensuring a stable international order since the coalition has attempted to substitute military power for authoritative peacekeeping When MNF legitimacy was questioned and authority was challenged the MNF s use of force in response to those challenges switched the coalition s role from third party peacekeeper to factional participant As a result every successive attempt to strengthen the MNF mandate has further subordinated the concept of neutral international peacekeeping to calculated support of national interests If reasoned attempts to keep the peace are not to collapse into exercises in national self interest then peacekeeping responsibilities must remain with the U N supported by the great powers Only the U N can provide an authoritative exposition of values within the context of international society and bestow international legitimacy upon peacekeeping activities only the great powers can back the U N with requisite force Law Notes ,1924
