

Research Paper Assignment

Compose an essay that thoroughly addresses your proposed topic. Refer back to your prospectus. Clearly identify your topic in a well-developed thesis, and then support that thesis by presenting your research in an orderly, cohesive manner that ends in a well-formatted conclusion. The thesis is the road map for your essay and the conclusion needs to bring it to a logical end that clearly addresses the thesis.

Field and library research are required for this paper. Think about whom to interview as you narrow your focus. Prepare your interview questions carefully and, if you decide to conduct a survey, prepare a draft of that at the same time. Refer to your text for reminders about interviews and surveys as well as other types of field research. This essay assignment includes research components to help you better understand what will be required of you later in your academic career.

Each component of this paper will receive a grade. It is extremely important that you complete each section according to instructions and submit each section when it is due. Make it your very best effort insofar as grammar, punctuation, and composition skills are concerned. The components of this assignment are listed below along with their value towards the 200 point project total.

| Component | Value | Length | Due Date |
|----------------------------|------------|-----------------------|----------|
| Prospectus | 50 points | 1 page | April 8 |
| Research Logs | 25 points | as many as it takes | April 22 |
| Annotated Bibliography | 25 points | as many as it takes | April 22 |
| Essay includes Works Cited | 100 points | 4 pages + Works Cited | May 6* |

May 6 is our final exam night. You may opt to complete your paper in time for our last class on April 29. That is fine with me as that will give you time to study for your other final exams.*

The million dollar question: How many sources do I have to have? The answer is a minimum of five scholarly sources. Types of resources required for this paper:

|--------------------------------|---|
| Book | One book other than your textbook; use the Lane Library |
| Peer-Reviewed Journal Articles | One scholarly article |
| Web Site | One Internet Resource approved by me |
| Field Research | One interview, one close observation, or one survey |
| Other | One additional resource from the list above |

These types of research are fun and rewarding. You gain more than just knowledge about your topic from this type of research.*

The Research Process Myrtle S. Bolner, Gayle A. Poirier, 2004 Teaching the Library Research Process Carol Collier Kuhlthau, 1994-01-01 This practical resource gives academic librarians and school media specialists a complete instructional program for introducing students to the process of library research. The program has been tested and proven as an exceptionally effective method for guiding students in independent learning using library resources. The second edition of this highly regarded text incorporates use of newer library technologies into innovative process strategies instructional plans and coaching techniques. Seven basic steps of the research process are identified and described. Ready to use activities with worksheets are provided to help students achieve the specific task to be accomplished at each stage. In many ways the book is more timely than when the first edition was published in 1985. The library research process approach to learning integrates subject area content with essential information processing skills preparing students to address real problems in real world contexts in the information age. Allen, 2019-02-26 The SAGE Guide to Writing in Criminal Justice provides students studying crime with a how-to manual for effective writing in institutions of higher learning, professional settings, public and private agencies, and beyond. It is an easy accessible resource for anyone hoping to learn the nuts and bolts of writing for criminal justice audiences. Christina Mancini (Virginia Commonwealth University, Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs) The SAGE Guide to Writing in Criminal Justice equips students with transferable writing skills that can be applied across the field of criminal justice, both academically and professionally. Authors Steven Hougland and Jennifer M. Allen interweave professional and applied writing, academic writing, and information literacy with the result being a stronger, more confident report writer and student in criminal justice. Students are also exposed to a number of best practices for academic and professional writing such as research papers, resumes, and cover letters, and report writing. The perfect companion for any introductory criminal justice course this brief text focuses on key topics that will benefit students in their classes and in the field Reading Empirical Research Studies John R. Hayes, Richard E. Young, Michele L. Matchett, Maggie McCaffrey, Cynthia Cochran, 2020-10-07 For the most part those who teach writing and administer writing programs do not conduct research on writing. Perhaps more significantly they do not often read the research done by others because effective reading of articles on empirical research requires special knowledge and abilities. By and large those responsible for maintaining and improving writing instruction cannot without further training access work that could help them carry out their responsibilities more effectively. This book is designed as a text in graduate programs that offer instruction in rhetoric and composition. Its primary educational purposes are to provide models and critical methods designed to improve the reading of scientific discourse to provide models of effective research designs and projects appropriate to those learning to do empirical research in rhetoric. Aiming to cultivate new attitudes toward empirical research this volume encourages an appreciation of the rhetorical tradition that informs the production and critical reading of empirical studies. The book should also reinforce a slowly growing realization in English studies that empirical methods are not inherently alien to the humanities rather that methods extend the power of humanist researchers trying to solve the problems of their discipline A Practical Guide to Research Papers James P. Farrelly, Lorraine M. Murphy, 1988 From Paragraph to Term Paper Ellen Lipp, 1990 Simon & Schuster Handbook for Writers Lynn Quitman Troyka, 1987 The Present and Future of Immunology Education Andrea Bottaro, Deborah M. Brown, John Gregory Frelinger, 2022-01-24 The explosion of basic and applied immunology in the first decades of the 21st century has brought forth new opportunities and challenges for immunology education at all academic levels from professional to undergraduate medical graduate and post graduate instruction. Moreover developing methods and techniques for educating general audiences on the importance and benefits of immunology will be critical for increasing public awareness and support. One major immediate challenge consists in accommodating within the confines of traditional immunology curricula a body of knowledge that continues to grow exponentially in both size and complexity. Furthermore the practical toolbox of immunological research has vastly expanded and even in the present environment of highly interdisciplinary and collaborative science future immunologists will likely need to be at least conversant in for instance computational structural and system biology, nanotechnology and tissue engineering. At the same time our perspective of the immune system has progressively developed from primarily a host defense mechanism to a fundamental homeostatic system with organism wide physiological and clinical significance and with potentially transformative biotechnological and therapeutic applications. As a consequence in addition to stand alone courses immunology is increasingly integrated into other courses or distributed longitudinally throughout a multi year curriculum. This necessitates inter disciplinary approaches to reach an expanding range of disciplines as diverse as neurobiology, cancer biology, oncology, infectious diseases, pharmacology, orthopedics and bioengineering. Creative approaches and pedagogical flexibility will be needed to avoid the pitfall of one size fits all instruction and to tailor level and discipline appropriate content to different types of students using multiple teaching formats Finally like most other disciplines immunology education is also under strong pressure to introduce new didactic strategies that are relevant and meaningful to a generation of students who are digital natives comfortable with and expect on demand and multi modal learning diversified sources and active engagement Thankfully the dynamic and interactive behavior of immune system cells now visualized with striking immediacy by in vivo imaging has the ability to capture and hold the interest of even the most jaded learner The need for an increasingly immunology knowledgeable workforce not just academic and industry scientists but also clinical and research lab technicians biomedical engineers and physicians in a growing array of specialties will also expand job opportunities for immunologists as educators and for content creators dedicated to generating new didactic tools in this field Acknowledgement We acknowledge the initiation and support of this Research Topic by the International Union of Immunological Societies IUIS Research Matters Liz
